

There has not been such a terrible tragedy in the lives of the animals at Farm 51 since Princillascoppola III.

As I'm sure you know, the reputation of the cows at Farm 51 precedes them. The beauty of these cows is the stuff of legend throughout the universe, said to be unrivaled on any other planet in history. Despite this reputation, the animals at Farm 51 have no desire for fame and fortune, and have lived quiet, unassuming lives for centuries.

But one fateful eve, the infamous pest, Queen Alien Princillascoppola XI, stopped by Earth. It was the last destination on her planet-hopping tour, looking for the loveliest pet the universe had to offer, as a birthday present to herself. (Her birthday wasn't for 11 months, but she had gotten tired of waiting.)

As she floated down from the heavens, in her UFO rimmed with 3000-carat diamonds, she laid her big buggy eyes on the catastrophically charming cows of Farm 51. The legends were true! Their pristine white coats, glamorous black splotches, and majestic pink noses made them the finest creatures in the entire expanse of the universe. She just had to have them in her throne room, as delightful dairy-laden decor.

The animals at Farm 51 are horrified by this prospect. They are determined to defend their elegant friends from a lifetime of servitude, at the hands of a covetous alien queen. Time and time again, Queen Alien Princillascoppola III has sent armies of her loyal subjects to Farm 51 with one mission: to capture these beautiful beasts and bring them home. And time and time again, the animals at Farm 51 have united their forces, and successfully forced her troops into shameful surrender.

All these failures have sent the Queen into a monstrous rage. And tonight, in one last-ditch effort, she will launch the largest offensive known to alien-kind. If her troops still cannot fulfill their task, she is prepared to make an appearance, and fight Farm 51 herself!

Since animals are somewhat lacking in the strategic department, Farm 51 has summoned you to coordinate its defense! Will you join arms with the animals to defeat this remorseless alien royalty once and for all, and save their friends from a lifetime of embittered servitude?